MUR # 6602

To Whom It May Concern:

I am filing a complaint against Matt Moore running US House seat AK-01 (MooreforAlaska) for deliberately braking FEC Rules

According to the Associated Press dated 05-09-2012 Matt Moore was planning to file his candidate paperwork on Wednesday May 9th.

According to Alaska State web site, Matt Moore had not filled his paperwork till 05-11-2012.

Matt Moore has not filed with the IRS as of May 11th and had not been issued a tax ID number

Without the tax ID number, Matt Moore could not legally open a bank account for the campaign.

Matt Moore has not registered with the FEC. His Pac is (MooreforAlaska). Matt Moore did not file his FEC for last quarter.

Matt Moore has not filed with the house of representative and has no candidate id number.

Matt Moore was receiving donations prior to his filing date by at least 60 days. When he was at the Mat-Su Dem event in Feb 2012 he was asking and receiving donations.

The Alaska Democratic State Convention was held on May 11th -13, 2012; prior to this date Matt Moore placed an full page color campaign ad on page 2 of the event booklet, which was printed at least two weeks prior to May 11th 2012. This was a very expansive and expensive ad that was placed prior to his filing date.

Matt Moore arrived at the State Convention on the 11th with campaign signage, contribution envelopes, buttons and other items, which had to be designed and produced prior to his filing date.

I believe that Matt Moore has deliberately withheld reporting contributions to his campaign 441a (a) (1)(e), 441(a) and 11 CFR 103.3(a) and (b).

I believe MooreforAlaska is in non compliance with FEC. See attach copy of donation envelope produced prior to his filing. An ad was placed in the ADP state convention book also before Mr. Moore filing, and produced election material and collected money prior to his filing by more than 60 days.

Sincerely,

Cathie L. Russell

Democrat plans to file papers to run against Young

by The Associated Press

05.09.12 - 11:24 am

ANCHORAGE, Alaska - A Democratic challenger to U.S. Rep. Don Young says he plans to file his candidate paperwork Wednesday with the Alaska state Division of Elections.

Matt Moore, a former legislative candidate with a medical consulting business, is among five people running against the Alaska Republican. Moore lives in Anchorage.

Beside Moore, three other Democrats seek that party's nomination to challenge Young. They are state Rep. Sharon Cissna of Anchorage and little-known Democratic candidates Doug Urquidi of Eagle River and Frank Vondersaar of Homer.

The other challengers are Republican John R. Cox of Anchor Point and Libertarian Jim McDermott of Fairbanks.

Democrat plans to file papers to run against Young

By The Associated Press
AP Wire - 7:10 PM

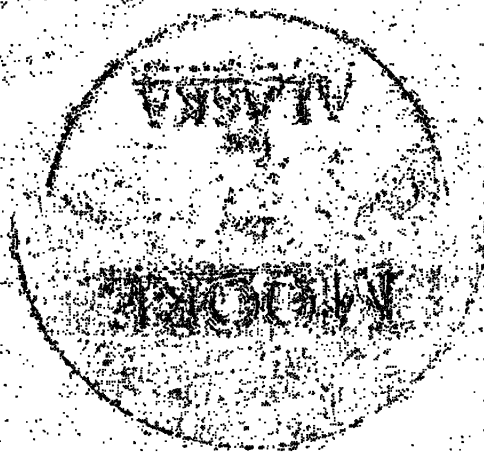

ANCHORAGE, Alaska - A Democratic challenger to U.S. Rep. Dan Young says he plans to file his candidate paperwork Wednesday with the Alaska State Division of Elections.

Mar Moore, a former legislative candidate with a medical consulting business, is among five people running against the Alaska Republican incumbent in Anchorage.

Beside Moore, three other Democrats seek that party's nomination to challenge Young. They are state Rep. Sharon Cassin of Anchorage and two known Democratic candidates Doug L. Quinn of Eagle River and Frank W. Anderson of Homer.

The other challengers are Republican John R. Farn of Anchor Point and E. J. Johnston of Metlakatla.
